

FOR OUR PARTNER SCHOOLS & AGENCIES

A letter before anything else.

Dear partner,

If you are reading this, we have probably already spoken — and that is exactly how we like it. WILD English School is a small, family-run junior immersion school with hubs in Limerick, Galway on Ireland's west coast. We do not work with hundreds of agencies. We work with a small number of partners we know by name, and we answer the phone when they call.

Our students are 11 to 18. They live with Garda-vetted Irish host families, study 15 hours of CEFR-aligned English each week through our City and Sea curriculum — Place-Based CLIL & Digital Output — then spend their afternoons surfing, hiking and speaking English over dinner tables along the Atlantic coast. We cap every season at 150–200 students — past that, a student becomes a reference code, and we refuse to run that kind of school.

This booklet covers what you can expect from us, what we ask of you, and how the partner portal works. Questions? Contact me directly — I will make sure you get a clear answer.

Partnership with Wild is not a login and a rate sheet. It is a working relationship with the people who actually run the programme — backed by a portal that keeps the paperwork out of your inbox.

Net rates & commission

Agreed in writing before the first student. A 20% deposit confirms allocation; the balance is due 30 days before arrival.

Live availability

Real-time course and host-family allocation in the partner portal. If you can see a place, you can hold it.

Partner portal access

Register bookings, add activities and transfers, message our team, and download invoices — all from one dashboard.

Free group-leader places

One free leader place for every ten paying students, including accommodation and activities.

Place-Based CLIL & Digital Output

English grows through real-world investigation, media production and place-based projects mapped to CEFR outcomes.
